The Lubar Institute for the Study of the Abrahamic Religions is a UW organization, within the College of Letters and Science, which explores the intersections between Islam, Judaism, and Christianity. The Institute brings international speakers to campus, supports academic teaching and research, hosts conferences, and advocates for greater awareness of religious diversity on campus. In student-led discussion groups, Christian, Jewish, and Muslim undergraduates come together to talk about their faiths and develop leadership skills. Visit our web site to learn more about getting involved.
